Grading scale: Uppsala University uses five different grading scales. Each faculty decides which of the grading scales will be used in that faculty. The syllabus for a course must always specify which grading scale will be used for that particular course. It is very important to note that if a student receives a passing grade, no re-takes or supplemental assignments can be done to receive a higher grade, nor can a student be re-registered on the course. You must meet the entry requirements for each course you select. Please refer to the individual course syllabus.

Grading scale: UFRGS uses the following grade system for the evaluation of its students: A – Excellent; B – Very Good; C – Satisfactory; D – Unsatisfactory; FF – Absent (with less than 75% of presence). The f irst three are passing grades and the last two are insufficient grades. It is important to highlight that some variations in this system may be possible, and that some professors use numbers (from 0 to 10) instead of letters in their assessment. In this case, the final grade in number will be converted into a final grade in letter – if the number is near 10, the grade will be A. However, there isn't a pattern established for this conversion and it is up to the professors to decide and to inform their students during first day of class about the system adopted.
